

May 31st, June 1 & 2, 2013

SEA-PAC Banquet Speaker

Jack Crabtree, W7JLC, "Amateur Radio Ballooning"

Jack's career was with Lockheed Martin in Denver, Colorado, where he spent 26 years as a satellite communications engineer. Jack was an active AMSAT member involved in the testing of several amateur radio satellites. Jack co-founded Edge of Space Sciences (EOSS) in Colorado with the explicit goal to "Promote Science and Education through Amateur Radio and High Altitude Balloons" and founded Arizona Near-Space Research (ANSR) where he continues his tradition of involving students in numerous amateur radio high altitude balloon projects and flights. He currently mentors ERAU's Project HiBall which continues to conduct over 130 high altitude balloon flights involving over 800 students.

Friday Workshop

May 31st, 9 AM - 5 PM (Registration required – optional luncheon)

- * Successful DXing with a little pistol station (W7YAO) - Work the world with a small station, skill, and patience.
- * Getting high on mountains with ham radio! (K7TAY) - Experience the thrill of DX from summits with portable gear.
- * Antennas for a City Lot (K7JA) - Tools and tricks for putting out an effective signal on a variety of bands, with an eye on maximum pile-up punch for minimum cost.
- * Portable antenna systems for EmComm (and having fun with them) (N7KGA) - Use your portable antenna system so when you need it you know how to use it.
- * Operating VHF portable (N7CFO) - All hams can get into the fun operating VHF and DXing.
- * Get out and do it! Portable operation fun (KB7WSD) - Take your station away from home and operate successfully with the right planning and preparation.
- * How to BE DX; As told by a Newbie DXpeditioner (NE7D) - A light-hearted look at his first time on the other end of the pile-up with a few do's and don'ts learned on his first DX trip.
